My personal learning plan for the 2016-2017 academic year includes the following goals and activities.

1. Leadership

- a. I will develop my leadership skills by continuing to serve on the worship team for Campus Crusade for Christ
 - i. Demonstration: I will demonstrate the leadership skills I have gained through Cru by displaying them in other areas of my life. I will also reflect on my experiences in Cru by including my experiences in my leadership essay for my e-folio
- b. I will also develop my leadership skills by taking the Honors 401 seminar Exploring Personal Leadership Through Social Change.
 - i. Demonstration: I will demonstrate the leadership skills I have gained through the series of activities required for the class that I can put in my e-folio.

2. Research

- a. I will begin to look for topics for a potential research project that will take place later on in my college career.
 - i. Demonstration: I will demonstrate this by writing brief journal entries to reflect on what I'd really like to research and how I'm going to make it happen. I will publish these in my e-folio.
- b. I will also start looking for a faculty member who can help me with my research and hopefully will be willing to invest their time into something like an undergraduate's research.
 - i. Demonstration: This part of my learning plan will take some time, so as far as demonstration goes, I will actively seek out a faculty mentor when I have a better idea of what I want to research. Once I find this mentor, I will meet with him/her and write a reflection on our meeting and publish it in my e-folio.

3. Global Citizenship

- a. I will develop my global citizenship skills by planning to study abroad at some point in my college career. I am not sure whether I want to study for just a month or a whole semester, but I am aware of some of my options and will find the one that works best for me.
 - i. Demonstration: I will demonstrate this by looking into my options for where to study, how long to study, and what financial aid options are available for me. In addition, I will reflect on my findings in my critical incident journal and publish my study abroad experiences in my e-folio.

- b. I will also develop my global citizenship skills by completing my Spanish 201 class at the end of Fall semester.
 - i. Demonstration: I will demonstrate my global citizenship skills in this class by showing what I have learned through my performance on exams and projects in the class. I will include links to these projects and copies of my essays in my e-folio.
